'Tis ſaid that the Princeſs Frederica Louiſa, Daughter of the Reigning Duke of Saxe-Gotha, and Niece to the Princeſs Dowager of Wales, is deſtined to be the Conſort of a certain illuſtrious young Monarch: Her Highneſs is a very accompliſh'd Princeſs, about 18 Years of Age, being born the 30th of January, 1742.

The following Inſcription is put on his late Majeſty's Coffin.

Here lies depoſited
The Remains of the Moſt Serene, Moſt Mighty,
and Moſt Excellent Monarch, GEORGE the SECOND,
By the Grace of GOD, of Great-Britain, France and Ireland, King, Defender of the Faith, Duke of Brunſwick and Lunenburgh, Arch-Treaſurer and Prince Elector of the Holy Roman Empire.
He died the 25th Day of October,
In the Year of our Lord 1760,
In the 77th Year of his Age,
And 34th of his Reign.

November 8. The Expedition is going forward very briſkly.

On Wedneſday next all the Stores, excluſive of the Powder, will be on board.

All the Tranſports at their Loading in this Harbour, take in each a flat-bottom'd Boat.

At Spithead are, the Admirals Holbourn, and Durell, with 27 Sail of Men of War.

The King has been pleaſed to iſſue a Proclamation for the Encouragement of Piety and Virtue, and for preventing of Vice, Prophaneneſs, and Immorality; thereby declaring his Royal Purpoſe and Reſolution to puniſh all Perſons guilty thereof, of whatſoever Degree or Quality, within this Realm, and particularly ſuch as are employed near his Royal Perſon; and that for the Encouragement of Religion and Morality, he will, upon all Occaſions, diſtinguiſh Perſons of Piety and Virtue by Marks of his Royal Favour. And he does thereby ſtrictly enjoin and prohibit, all his loving Subjects, of what Degree or Quality ſoever, from playing on the Lord's Day, at Dice, Cards, or any other Game whatſoever, and either in Public or Private Houſes, or other Place or Places whatſoever; and does require and command them, and every of them, decently and reverently to attend the Worſhip of God on every Lord's Day, on Pain of his higheſt Diſpleaſure, and of being proceeded againſt with the utmoſt Rigour that may be by Law. And for the more effectual reforming all ſuch Perſons, who, by Reaſon of their diſſolute Lives and Converſation, are a Scandal to the Kingdom, his further Pleaſure is, that all Judges, Mayors, Sheriffs, Juſtices of the Peace, and all other Officers and Miniſters, both Eccleſiaſtical and Civil, and all others whom it may concern, be very vigilant and ſtrict in the Diſcovery, and the effectual Proſecution and Puniſhment of all Perſons who ſhall be guilty of exceſſive Drinking, Blaſphemy, Prophane Swearing, Lewdneſs, Prophanation of the Lord's Day, or other diſſolute, immoral, or diſorderly Practices; and that they take Care alſo, to effectually ſuppreſs all Public Gaming Houſes and Places, and other lewd and diſorderly Houſes. And to the End that all Vice and Debauchery may be prevented, and Religion and Virtue practiſed by all Officers, Private Soldiers, Mariners, and others, who are employed in the Service by Sea and Land, all Officers and Commanders whatſoever, are commanded to avoid all Prophaneneſs, Debauchery, and other Immoralities, and, that by their own good and virtuous Lives and Converſations, they do ſet good Examples to all ſuch as are under their Care and Authority; and likewiſe take Care of and inſpect the Behaviour of ſuch as are under them, and puniſh all thoſe who may be guilty of any of the Offences aforeſaid, as they ſhall be anſwerable for the ill Conſequences of the Neglect thereof.

November 1. Yeſterday, about One o'Clock in the Afternoon, the Right Honourable Sir Thomas Chitty, Knight, Lord-Mayor, accompanied by the Aldermen and Commoners of the Committee for the New Bridge, proceeded in State (but without Muſic) to Black-Fryars; and there, in the North Abutment, his Lordſhip laid the firſt Stone of the intended New Bridge, by ſtriking the ſame with a Mallet, the Officers laying the City Sword and Mace thereon at the ſame Time, in the Sight of an infinite Number of Spectators; who, amidſt the Firing of ſeveral Rounds of Cannon, placed there for that purpoſe, and the Bells ringing, expreſſed their Joy by loud Huzzas.

Several Pieces of Gold, Silver and Copper Coin, of his late Majeſty, were placed under the Stone, together with the following Inſcriptions, in large Plates of pure Tin.

[Engliſh'd thus:]

On the laſt Day of October, in the Year 1760, and in the Beginning of the moſt auſpicious Reign of GEORGE the Third,
Sir THOMAS CHITTY, Knight, Lord Mayor, laid the firſt Stone of this Bridge,
Undertaken by the Common Council of London, (amidſt the Rage of an extenſive War)
for the public Accommodation,
And Ornament of the City:
ROBERT MYLNE being the Architect.
And that there might remain to Poſterity
a Monument of this City's Affection to the Man who, by the Strength of his Genius,
the Steadineſs of his Mind,
and a certain Kind of happy Contagion of his Probity and Spirit, (under the Divine Favour,
and fortunate Auſpices of GEORGE the Second) recovered, augmented, and ſecured,
the Britiſh Empire
in Aſia, Africa, and America, and reſtored the ancient Reputation and Influence of his Country amongſt the Nations of Europe;
The Citizens of London have unanimouſly voted this Bridge to be inſcribed with the Name of WILLIAM PITT.

When the Ceremony was over, his Lordſhip and the Committee returned to the Manſion-houſe, where an elegant Entertainment was provided for them by his Lordſhip.

Extract of a Letter from Portſmouth, Oct. 20.

"There have been brought into this Place, within theſe few Days, about 200 Waggons laden with Gunpowder, and other warlike Stores.

"The Men were at work all Yeſterday [Sunday] upon the flat-bottom'd Boats, which are building in this Yard.

"For two or three Evenings paſt a great Number of Men belonging to the Deptford, Marlborough, and Newark Men of War, aſſembled together on Goſport Beach, and fought one Ship's Company againſt another, with Cutlaſſes, &c. and notwithſtanding the Vigilance of the Officers, they could by no Means diſperſe them. Great Miſchief was done, ſeveral of them had their Arms and Hands cut off, and 25 of them have been ſent to the Hoſpital wounded."

September 13. Yeſterday the Seſſions ended at the Old Bailey, when 12 Priſoners were tried, one of whom was capitally convicted, viz. Francis David Stirne, for the wilful Murder of Mr. Richard Matthews, by ſhooting him in the Breaſt with a Piſtol loaded with Ball; the Trial laſted near four Hours, and he was convicted on the cleareſt Evidence. Immediately after his Conviction, the Court paſſed Judgment on him, that he ſhould be executed on Monday next at Tyburn, and his Body be delivered to be anatomized.

The chief Intent of Stirne's Evidence was to prove him not properly in his Senſes. He was dreſſed in a green Night-Gown, and appeared to be a very perſonable young Gentleman, ſcarcely 25 Years of Age. He begged that he might be permitted the Uſe of a Coach, to prevent his being expoſed to the Populace, which was denied. He ſeemed very much compoſed after Sentence was paſſed, and went out of Court with great Reſolution.

Mr. Stirne had, during his Trial (as is ſuppoſed) by Means of ſome wicked Friend, procured a Quantity of Opium; of which he, at his Return to Priſon, took ſo large a Doſe, that it finiſhed his Life laſt Night, about Half an Hour after Eleven o'Clock: He was a moſt ſhocking Spectacle to behold in his Agonies; and though he ſeemed in great Part inſenſible, yet by the repeated Convulſions, Throws and Diſtortions, he muſt evidently have felt as much, or more, than thoſe he ſtrove to avoid. By his Bed-Side he had Sherlock on Death, and a Piece of Opium about an Inch long. On the Wall of his Apartment he had written ſeveral Latin Sentences, relative to the Hope of an happy Reſurrection; and on the Stone Wall in the Preſs Yard he had written with red Oker, O Lucifer, Son of the Morning, how art thou brought down to Hell, to the Side of this Pit! The Coroner's Inqueſt ſat on his Body on Saturday Evening, and brought in their Verdict, Self-murder.

Stirne's Body was carried from Newgate to Surgeon's Hall to be diſſected; the Operation was begun with his Head, to ſee what Effect the Poiſon had on his Brain. His Corpſe having been inſpected by the Surgeons, at their Hall in the Old Bailey, will this Evening be buried near Blackmary's Hole, and a Stake driven through his Body, agreeable to the Verdict of the Coroner's Inqueſt.

BOSTON, December 29.

We learn from St. Kitts, That a Flag of Truce was arrived at Guadaloupe from Martinico, with 60 Priſoners, among whom was Capt.
